

WHAT IT IS

A modern life-skills platform built for real independence, and for the teachers who make it happen.

Spectrum Shepherd is a purpose-built life-skills platform for autistic and neurodiverse middle and high school students. Students build real-world independence through interactive, interest-based lessons. In the background, their daily activity is converted into audit-ready progress evidence for IEP meetings and transition compliance, without adding a manual documentation burden on teachers.

“ I see the value both as a teacher and as an administrator. As a teacher, it gives us a highly effective tool for explicit functional and social skills instruction. As an administrator, it lets us monitor progress that's typically far too subjective. Our team can now set the trajectory and manage to it. ”
